Hospital School of Nursing

High Point, North Carolina

Foreword

As the seasons come and go, so memories are made. Each brings with it events which commemorate our life at High Point Memorial Hospital School of Nursing.

"Our practical experience has convinced us that inner growth and broadening personality come from daring and sharing."

Now we know partially the extent of knowledge, understanding, sincerity, and devotion we must possess. Thus three years have passed, but they shall remain embedded in our hearts for years to come with many glorious thoughts of those who were a part of our school of nursing, throughout all the seasons of time.

Well, we thought we'd never get it finished but we did! Countless were the many sleepless nights spent in preparing our yearbook for publication. Will we ever forget the chewed fingernails, the Aspirin tablets, and the turned down dates those last few panicky nights? In the end, however, we all agreed it was well worthwhile. We would like to thank our advisors and all others who have been so cooperative in helping us make our annual the best one yet!

To Doctor _____

"Good Morning"

I guess that's about the only words I've ever spoken to you and I probably said them so meekly you didn't hear them anyway. But I went on my way utterly thrilled that you looked my way even if you didn't really see me. You always appeared so intense that you wouldn't notice if I bumped you in the hall. But I've seen you, sir. I think you'd laugh if you knew how I watched you come and go from the window. My day wasn't complete unless I saw you just once. And how those cold chills would run up and down my spine every time you came to check your charts. Yes, I've seen you work. I guess that's what impresses me most of all ... the way you work, not only with your hands and mind, but with your heart and soul. You must love this duty that God has called you to perform. I think the power to save a human life is the most wonderful God-given gift a man could ever receive. To me, sir, you are truly one of those honored individuals who can proudly bear the title of PHYSICIAN.

Business Office

One of the busiest departments in our hospital ... The Business Office

Admitting Office

Mr. Burton and Miss Jones are getting ready for a busy Sunday afternoon.

Medical Records

For each patient in the hospital an accurate record must be kept.

Switchboard Operators

Twenty-four hours a day we can always depend on the switchboard operators to carry on communications within our hospital.

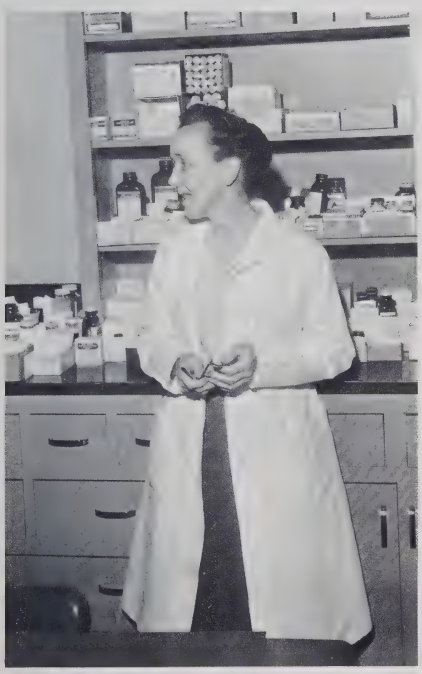
Social Worker

Mrs. Mary Green, who with her friendly smile and cheerful attitude, while delivering mail and running small errands for the patients, makes their stay in the hospital more pleasant.

Home Care Service

Last year a new service was added to High Point Memorial Hospital. Under Miss Sarah Ingole's direction the Home Care Service helps the family to solve the problems that result when a patient still needing a limited amount of nursing care is discharged from the hospital.

Purchasing Agent



MRS. KATHERINE W. SPENCER, R.N.

Pharmacist

MRS. ANNA M. CARRALERO

Chaplain

Reverend Clarence Russell, educated at Rutherford College and Duke University, retired from Calvary Methodist Church of High Point two years ago and since has been serving as chaplain of High Point Memorial Hospital. Reverend Russell brings strength and willing motivation to those suffering and in need of spiritual uplift and guidance.

Medical Auxiliary

Much service is rendered the hospital and the student nurses by both these organizations. These women have helped in many ways in the past years and their continued service is deeply appreciated.

Third Floor

Our obstetrical department, where the miracle of birth is witnessed each day and the cries of babies make us aware of many new generations to follow.

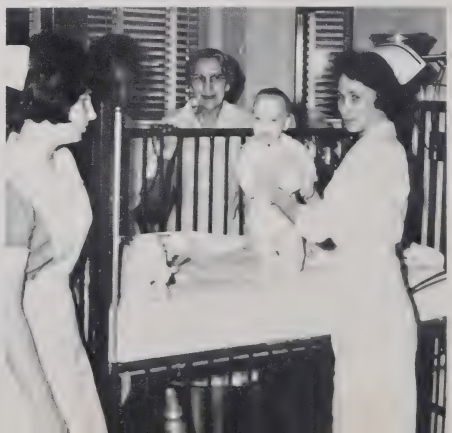
Kind and gentle care is given to the newborn by the efficient nursery staff, Mrs. Huffman, head nurse, and Mrs. Stanley and Mrs. Young.

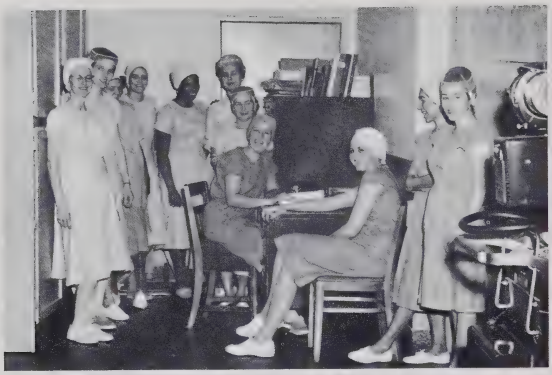
Mrs. Clayton instructing Mrs. Livengood, a senior student, on the techniques of preparing for a delivery.

MRS. MARY CLAYTON, R.N.
Obstetrical Supervisor and Instructor

On postpartum we witness the joy and pride of new mothers along with Mrs. MacPherson, Mrs. Davis, Mrs. Albertson, Mrs. Smith, and Mrs. Clayton.

Scott Payne appears happy from all the attention he is getting from Miss McNair, senior student, Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Burgess, nurses' aides and Mrs. Boyles, R.N.





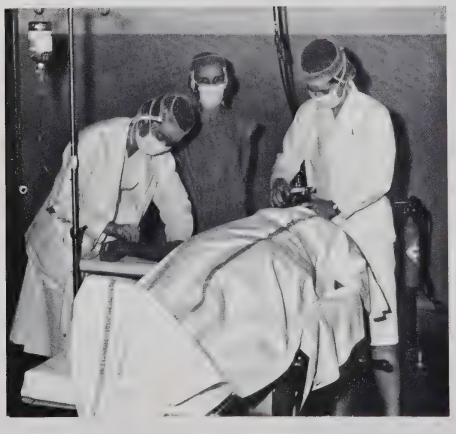
Operating Room

In Surgery we discover the wonders of the human body.

Recovery Room

In the Recovery Room Mrs. Hutchens, R.N. and Mrs. Ritchie, L.P.N. help us to react the patients from the anesthesia as they return from surgery.

Anesthesia



The anesthetists skillfully send our patients to dreamland.

O. R. Orderlies

What would we do without the help of our O.R. orderlies, James, John, and Andrew?

Emergency Room

You just never know what will come through those emergency room doors! However, Mrs. Juska, R. N. and Miss Ferguson, R.N. (not pictured) are always there to help.

Physical Therapy

Mrs. Jenkins, R.N., helps Miss Love, senior student, to a relaxing whirlpool bath in the Physical Therapy Department.

Private Duty Nurse

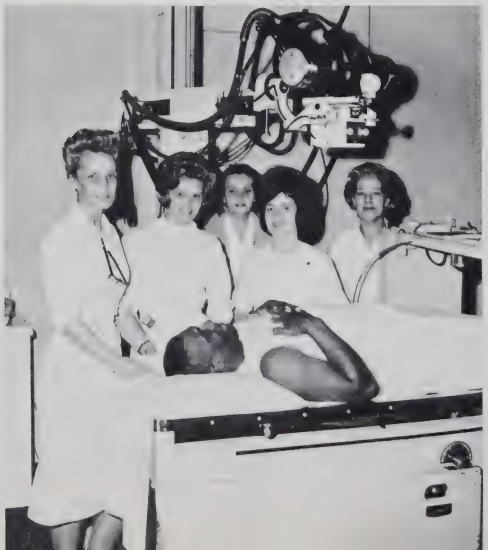
The private duty nurses give special care to the patients who need constant attention by a skilled member of the nursing staff.

Laboratory

The efficient laboratory technicians are very familiar faces to many of our patients.

X - Ray

These X-Ray technicians are the best photographers that we know.



Central Supply

The Central Supply staff is always ready with packaged, sterile equipment.

Nurses Aides

The nurses' aides are a great asset to our hospital. They are ever ready to assist the nurse with her heavy work load. Besides their other duties of bed-making, baths, and feedings, many of our aides assist with temperatures and blood pressures as well as some other treatments. Their assistance is greatly appreciated by their patients, the nurses and the students.

Ward Secretaries

Our ward secretaries are always ready to help the nurses with the heavy load of paper work.

Orderlies

Leroy and Eugene, are among our orderlies, who help the patients in so many ways.

Soda Shop

Patients, doctors, nurses and other members of the hospital staff take a refreshing break in the soda shop.

Diet Kitchen

Mr. Nipper, head of the dietary department, along with the rest of his staff, plan meals for our hospital.

Housekeeping Department

Mrs. Quinn, and the members of the housekeeping department work day by day to keep our hospital neat and clean.

Maintenance

"A light is broken in Room 241!" The maintenance men are ready to go to work."

Laundry

In this department, hospital laundry is washed, dried, pressed and made ready for use.

THE NURSE

The world grows better year by year,
Because some Nurse in her little sphere,
Puts on her apron and smiles and sings,
And keeps on doing the same old things.

Taking the temperature, giving the pills,
To remedy mankind's numberless ills,
Feeding the baby, answering the bells,
Being polite with a heart that rebels.

Longing for home and all the while,
Wearing the same old professional smile,
Blessing the newborn babe's first breath,
Closing the eyes that are still in death.

Taking the blame for the doctor's mistakes,
Oh dear, what a lot of patience it takes,
Going off duty at seven o'clock,
Tired, discouraged and ready to drop.

But called back on special at seven fifteen,
With woe in her heart, but it must not be seen,
Morning and evening and noon and night,
Just doing it over and hoping it's right.

When we lay down our caps and cross the bar,
Oh Lord, will you give us just one little star,
To wear in our crowns with our uniforms new,
In that city above where the Head Nurse is You.

FLORENCE NIGHTINGALE PLEDGE

I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly to pass my life in purity and to practice my profession faithfully.

I will abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous, and will not take or knowingly administer any harmful drug.

I will do all in my power to maintain and elevate the standard of my profession, and will hold in confidence all personal matters committed to my keeping and all family affairs coming to my knowledge in the practice of my calling.

With loyalty will I endeavor to aid the physician in his work, and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care.

On March 23, 1963 we the Senior Class of 1965 received our caps during a ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church. This was our first stepping stone toward achieving our goal as professional nurses. It was a happy night filled with mixed emotions. Since that time we have learned much about life itself and have developed a better insight into our ownselves. In the years to come we will never forget our night of capping.

Class History

Time flies like an everlasting brook; its ripples wavering from day to day. First they are weak; then they became strong. First they are scared; then they become secure. First they are worried; and then they become easy.

Such a life began on September 10, 1962 as thirty-one meek high school graduates entered this dormitory for registration at the High Point Memorial Hospital School of Nursing. None were really calm about the matter, but all were present with determination to begin their chosen field with earnestness.

The first adjustment was to dormitory life. There were all the radios, the boistrous voices, the disagreements, and sometimes the sobbing cries late at night that each roommate had to endure and try to find an answer for. At least we had no idle time for excessive daydreaming or self-pity. Our schedule was completely filled with classes. Soon we began our meager amount of floor duty giving A.M. care to our one ambulatory patient. Things changed quickly enough, though, and we soon found ourselves deeply involved on the floors with learning procedures and medications and doing long case studies requiring much concentration.

The big day finally arrived and our efforts had not been in vain. A cap was placed on our heads in a formal church service, and we really began to feel like nurses. The first goal had been reached. Little did we know of the many others yet to come.

Our Junior year we prided ourselves as being a little more than low man on the totem pole. As we placed the diagonal black bands on our caps, we began to realize the importance of the nurse in the patient's environment. This year we got the "feel" of giving nursing care and made a lot of progress toward becoming professional nurses.

Three enjoyable months were spent in Obstetrics. Here we saw the greatest of all blessings and learned to appreciate our own femininity. We gained a new insight to our physical selves.

Experience in the operating room took a lot from us as we stood hour after hour striving over the blood and tension to save a life. But great was the reward as we saw the bad being destroyed, the good made to function again.

Pediatric affiliation in Washington, D. C. gave us the opportunity to view the nation at work. There we also learned to adapt to a new society and comprehend the emotions of a child.

Psychiatric affiliation at the Institute Hospital of Pennsylvania gave us a wonderful chance for personal insight of our innermost motivations. By first understanding ourselves we were then able to give guidance and strength to those patients at the Institute. Every day we were challenged with new situations; our tasks were vital in the patients' recoveries.

Can I leave out the many social events in Washington and Philadelphia which improved our outlook on the opposite sex tremendously? I'm sure none of the girls will ever forget the male students at the Institute Hospital who were forever soothing our homesick minds and mixed-up hearts with kind words and deeds.

Now here are twenty girls wearing the final black bands on our caps. We are learning the role of a professional nurse. Soon we will be graduated and near the coveted R.N. certification.

The calm after the storm will soon come and then the brook will be strong, secure, easy, and everlastingly flowing as time passes day by day and we give our best to the world which has given us everything.

Class Historian,
Brenda Moore

Prophecy

Once again the barriers of time are broken down to permit a look into the future of each member of the class of 1965. This is what the year 1980 holds in store:

Besides being head nurse on Four West, you will also find Jean Bryant doing quite a few commercials for Lady Clairol.

Irene Brady, Director of Nursing at Asheboro, can be seen piloting her own plane back and forth between North Carolina and Philadelphia.

As choreographer on Shindig, Janet Beane is busy making sure all dancers are professional, while Carolyn Cole is still being pulled to Pediatrics at least twice a week.

Having left her log cabin in "them thar hills", Benton Covington is living in that great metropolis at Purley, N.C.

Meanwhile back in Asheboro, Rieta Garkalns, having been married for the past fourteen years and the mother of twelve children, has decided to pull out of matrimony completely. She has come to the conclusion that an old maid's life is less complicated.

No one has heard from Lennis Greene since her marriage thirteen years ago. Snow gets mighty high on those mountain passes and communications are poor.

The Los Angeles Times social events column features Barbara Hall frequently as she entertains Van's clients for Insurance. She's invented her own special Insurance policy to protect malpracticing nurses, too.

With her usual calm, cool manner Nancy Inman Livengood is conscientiously caring for her new house, her husband, four little boys, three dogs, two cats, four goldfish, and a baby turtle.

Far across the ocean, Priscilla Jones is now Head of the American Embassy in Moscow. Her innocent face secured the position for her.

Back in the states Sylvia Love has decided to stop reading books. She is now writing them and is the author of the best selling autobiography, I Led Three Lives—Nursing, Nursing, and (of course) Nursing.

Brenda Moore has been communicating with us from aboard the ship, S.S. Hope, where she teaches Psychiatry to the crewmen.

Having retired from nursing to her Southern plantation, Gene McKinney is now caring for her seven sets of twins.

Linda McNair is raising cats and does a little nursing on the side for extra money.

Mary Patterson is now picking on someone her own size, teaching philosophy to the pygmies.

Having legally changed her racial status, Carolyn Seawell is still lying out in the sun.

Twenty thousand leagues beneath the sea, Carolyn Thomas is giving patients swimming lessons as physical therapy.

With her feet on solid ground, Joyce Tisdale is living a fast life in Philly and has decided that nursing is truly her chosen profession. She is now head nurse on N4 at the Institute of Pennsylvania.

At home in Greensboro, Becky Vickery is happy being the mother of three adorable kids.

Martha Wampler has now resigned from nursing and is debating whether to be a clerk in Kress's Five and Ten or to be a dancer on Hullabaloo.

Will these predictions come to pass? Only time will tell. If you are around in 1980 you might be interested in investigating the lives of these present day student nurses.

"IN ORBIT"

I now have passed through darkened veil
With heartache, sorrow and much travail
To emerge a shining, Junior Nightingale.

But still complacency I can't afford
My trial is yet to be by sword—
    That impossible, intolerable,
        old state board.

And if by luck and Godly grace
I run the race and make the pace
I'll apply my trade in outerspace.
